WELDON SPRING

Workshop Is Set On Cleanup Site Tactics

The U.S. Department of Energy will hold a workshop Thursday to discuss the technologies under consideration to treat wastes at the Weldon Spring cleanup site.

The daylong program will start at 8:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn, 900 Corporate Parkway, Wentzville.

Topics to be covered include how the wastes could be processed and how facilities are engineered to isolate wastes from people and the environment.

Area residents interested in attending may get registration forms from the Weldon Spring site's community relations office by calling 441-8086.

Admission to the workshop will be free.
