Owls can turn their heads all the way around, right? No! If you don't believe me, just take a look at the LIVE owls that will be our featured feathered guests. During the first part of this program, we'll dispel some of the myths about owls and learn about the unique adaptations of these flying predators of the night sky. During the second half of the program, we will go on a night hike and try to call in an owl and engage in various sensory activities. Don't forget your camera!
