Rob,
 The Response to Comments and revised ESD look good to Ohio. Hopefully this is what you needed to move forward.
 Let me know.

Hello,

Attached please find the revised draft Explanation of Significant Differences (ESD) document and associated draft comment responses to address the adoption of the final MCL for uranium in drinking water as our groundwater FRL. The revisions were developed consistent with our discussions which took place via teleconference on Monday, June 18, 2001. If you should have any further comments or edits please give me a call and/or email me your comments or changes. If by Tuesday you have had a chance to look at the document we could alternatively discuss any needed changes on the Tuesday morning call. Our hope is to receive your approval on the document informally and then with the formal submittal back to Ohio and U.S. EPA also initiate the 30 day public comment period.
