It happens every year—you make a New Year's resolution that is all too quickly forgotten. This happens to the best of us, but it doesn't have to be that way. If getting in better shape was on your list this year, it's not too late to check off that resolution! Pack a healthy lunch and some drinking water, put on comfortable walking shoes, and meet us at the Visitors Center, where we will embark on a 7-mile hike before this year is over.

Celebrate the first full moon of 2015! Join us on a hike under the light of the Wolf Moon. Wolf packs once howled hungrily outside Native American villages, prompting dwellers to name January's full moon the "Wolf Moon."

Take advantage of the unusual opportunity to enjoy the Fernald Preserve after dark. To maximize your comfort during the hike, wear sturdy shoes and dress according to current weather conditions.

Bring a flashlight. We will use them sporadically throughout the event to light our paths and catch glimpses of our surroundings. Other moments will be enjoyed in total darkness, to make the most of our leisurely, 3-mile moonlit stroll.

In the event of inclement weather, this program will be cancelled. Call (513) 648-3330 after 3:00 p.m. on the day of event for program updates.

RAPTOR INC. (Regional Association for the Protection and Treatment of Raptors) will be presenting live birds of prey. Don't miss this rare opportunity to see these magnificent birds up close. You'll learn about their diet, habitat, nesting requirements, adaptations that make them supreme hunters of the sky, and the important role they play in our ecosystem.

Following the presentation, visitors will have the opportunity to participate in an activity where we will dissect owl pellets and identify their contents.
